Philanthropy News Digest A Non-Profit Resource

Dear CNMHC Member:

Today's News Alert reports on a publication of the Foundation Center called Philanthropy News Digest (PND). The PND is particularly useful for nonprofit leaders and those who are interested in working with nonprofits. It comes out once a week and includes resources collected from news and other media, both print- and web-based. The PND provides an abstract that summarizes the contents of each publication, presenting information about where the original source can be located.

Along with the news and resources above, the digest presents the following features:

- Columns: Experts discuss topics of interest to nonprofits.
- Connections: Other experts report on their specific areas of interest.
- Newsmakers: Nonprofit organizations and leaders in the news are highlighted.
- Spotlight: A single nonprofit is described in depth.
- Off the Shelf: Books related to nonprofit organizational development are presented.

In addition, PND publishes a Request for Proposals (RFP) bulletin once a week. The bulletin offers information about funding opportunities that are currently available to various kinds of nonprofits, including those related to mental health. Grantmaking organizations are cited, and contact information is provided. The RFP listings focus on one funding opportunity in particular, as well as make reference to many other sustainability resources. Contact information is always given.

Finally, the digest features a "job corner." This listing of job opportunities at foundations, public charities, and nonprofit organizations offers readers employment opportunities of all kinds and at all levels. Job seekers are given whatever contact information is necessary to begin the application process.
